Key values of a Dutch cooperation school and the practice of religious education

Publication (August 2017) - This article, written by Erik Renkema within the context of his PhD research presents the results of a single case study from a Dutch cooperation school. A cooperation school is the result of a merger between a public and a denominational school.

Read more on: